How to use a paddleboard

!!! Never use the paddleboard in the pool !!!

Inflate a paddleboard using an electric or hand pump to 10 – 12 PSI (keep in mind the sun will increase an inside pressure). Avoid dragging the board through the sand or water and instead carry it using the central carry handle or handles on the tips.

Put the leash on before you get on the water. When launching from the shore you'll want to ensure the board is floating (parallel to the shore) and the fins aren't touching the bottom (protect the underside of the board and its fins). Start by kneeling or lying down on your stomach until you have moved away from the shore into deeper water.

When returning to the shore you will want to be kneeling down before the water starts to get shallow. Stay kneeling until the water is knee deep and get off the board to ensure the fins don't scrap the bottom.

When not used, keep the paddleboard out of the direct sun (if possible) with the fins up. Keep the paddle clean and out from the sand.

To deflate the board, push the valve stem down to let the air out. Fold the empty, clean and dry paddle board from the nose to the tail and store it in a board bag.
